Kalum Chronicles

This is one of those "laugh and cry" episodes. The mystery of whether Kalum is/was busted is now cleared up. He is in Jail. Yes, the SWAT was called in because the Badgers couldn't get a hold of the lady cop from Belcourt to do their work for them... bunch of untrained sissies!

Not sure if it was SWAT from Devils Lake or Grand Forks. Not sure for sure who all was involved.

However, he is being held in the Ft. Totten Hotel Jail. His family would not risk him going to a real jail. He is sitting in there, cooling his heels and his friendly dispatchers and other cops who suck up to his family, are bringing him whatever his little heart's desireth.

So, not sure if he is getting massages or conjugal visits from girlfriends, dispatchers or pay-by-the-minute, and that is really not important.

They are all making sure he is really comfy, so that he won't say anything to the real cops in real municipalities, and the family and the crooked, drunk, untrained Badgers can also live without fear. As long as he isn't mad at them.

It is really important to all them big bad Badgers that Kalum knows they are not mad at him. Especially, Donovan Wind. Right, Donny Boy? Any late night visits planned or unplanned? (*Wink, wink). Best to reassure him now, rather than have him show up at the foot of your bed and scare the lady of the house!

Oh, that's another story. An old one, but very durable.

Irony

The irony of this all, for the Turdclan and for Kalum, is that they think they are saving him. Actually, they are killing him. Had they not supported him and his meth dealing, had they let him go to jail a long time ago, he might have gotten help and been a better person.

But they could not, would not risk him telling their dirty secrets of murder, embezzlement and such, so they "protected him" and will protect him to death, proving once again, that their murders from the past are killing them now. They are, in order to protect themselves, killing their children and grandchildren.

Of course, they will want all sympathies when he dies, or is gunned down, or he kills one or all of his children.

The pity parade is endless in those days to come.

"Don't say anything bad because we are victims and we are suffering. Bring us comfort and sympathy," Yeah, right.

Now that, my friends, would be laughable! Feel free that when these funeral announcements are made, to spit on the ground at their feet and tell them that is all you have for them right now. Come back after they have answered for the murders of the others, and the theft and the rapes that they have committed; the child molest and the worst that they have done. Then and only then, maybe some pity will be around.

Right now, they are bringing it all down on themselves. By protecting Kalum by keeping him in tribal jail, like a hotel, almost a spa for those of privilege, such as the Turdlings, they are leaving only one exit open for him.

And, of course, they would rather have him dead than to be revealed for what they have done.

Pity that!

Delectable Electable

Hearing from a lot of you that you are rather openly laughing at Tony McBony and his wonder child, Mary Mac, who is running for Chair in the Tribal Council. Her name is Mary Mac, like Mack Truck. She is as big as one but not as useful, unless you need someone to lie through her teeth and put an innocent man in prison while the guilty give her candy.

Her daddy got land and cattle for her lying. Family became wealthy. Of course, Tony McBony let his cattle die, and now, only gets more and more money because of the secrets and lies the family keeps in order to keep the Turdclan safe.

Time to remind you all that Demus McDonald was there when Eddie was murdered at Pister's home. Demus put his fingers to his lips: "Hush!" when Fred Peltier woke up from a drunken stupor and wanted to go help his brother. "Say nothing!" and later, Fred lied too, and claimed the murder happened somewhere else.

Lies, threats, intimidation, torture and beatings perjured testimony put the innocent in jail so the guilty could live free and well and continue their evil ways, supported by my tax dollars and your denial.

And then there was Mary. Who by now and even long ago, could have told the truth and set an innocent man free. But she chooses the comforts of her friends, she sucks up their evil while her mother sings sweetly, the hymns of Christians in the background.

Shun them. Confront them in public over what they have done and what they are continuing to do.

"Tell the truth!" say it to their faces, every time you see them. Tell them: "Tell the Truth!" make them feel the discomfort of their lies. Hold them accountable for their part in this prevailing evil that shadows your lives and drowns your children in fear, hopelessness, drugs and apathy.

Anytime you see any of them, tell them "Tell the Truth!" say it over and over again. Let them fear you until they tell the truth!

Go to her campaign rallies and speak up: "Tell the Truth!" be your chant until you hear them admit, again and again and until the innocent are free and the guilty brought to justice, make that your motto, your greeting to them, your response to each and everything they say.

Say it behind their backs and to their faces. Say it to their children and to their supporters.

Make them eat those words with each waking minute of their lives. If they suffer, so be it. They could end it all if they told the truth.

Free the innocent, bring the evil to Justice and this blog will stop hammering the point and we can all move on to better things. When they say they want this blog to stop, all they have to do, is TELL THE TRUTH.

Indians would know how to do this. Indians would not give up.

Indians would persevere and Indians would win.

Remember:

Richard LaFuentes hearing is May 21st (or 23rd?). Send your letters of support to the Parole Board Members at the addresses in the Contact page.

Also, Zit Puppet's recall is on the 27th of this month! See previous blog entry. At the casino auditorium, 10 AM. BE THERE!

Fundraiser Follies

Ironically, the same people that are proposing "raising a reward" are the same people too lazy to get out and stage a rally on the courthouse steps on the anniversary of the Murder of Eddie Peltier or even the on the anniversary dates of the wrongful convictions of their own family and friends!

Too self absorbed in their own comfort, whatever that may be, to even step up and make a stand one day a year, they now propose one of the most idiotic ideas yet, but one that could give them a little extra cash?

I heard that one person out there is saying "We should have a reward fund, raise money, maybe $5,000 or 10,000 (*Dream on!) to reward anyone that was a witness to Eddie's murder to come forward and tell the truth."

Forget that. Dumb plan. Let me just give you a short list as to why this is NOT going to work:

1. That amount of money will not enable anyone to get to safety. They would have to change and leave their life as they know it because the Turd Clan would kill them.
2. That kind of testimony would never make it to court because it is "Paid For" and considered perjury because it is said only for money!
3. I am suspicious of some people who are forever managing "fundraisers". They are not accountable for the money in, and we have no clue how much is in, and how much they have taken to spend on their own needs, such as Bingo.
4. In order for that NOT to be the case, too many people would have to be involved and they too, would all have to be paid for their "work". The money you think is going to the cause, will obviously have to go somewhere else.
5. If no one comes forward to collect the "reward" then that person who is running it, will put it to good use, like Bingo.

I say that if that person is serious about putting up a reward, that person would have put all the money that would normally go for Bingo and smokes, into that fund. But as long as Bingo and smokes get priority, I would not trust them.

Remember: It would be pointless to pay for testimony from a witness that was coming forward, with any kind of a story, that would easily be dismissed as "paid for."

People need to come forward because it is the right thing to do. They need to take the risks and stand up for the truth. Unwilling to do that, the community continues to suffer.

And those who prosper from the lies and benefit from protecting the evil out there, like Mary Mac Truck, should be hounded by the chant: "Tell the Truth."

You want to disempower the evil out there? Stop giving them the comfort of your silence!

What, too simple?

You know where to find me.
